ACM TechNews

President Obama called for increased investment in innovation and research in his State of the Union address. Obama wants to encourage innovators by hiring 100,000 new science, tech, and engineering teachers in the next five years. Obama also wants to ensure America is a global leader in wireless spectrum for mobile broadband. Within five years, the U.S. should deploy next-generation wireless networks by supporting the Federal Communications Commission to free up spectrum for mobile broadband.
